The Robbers Had in Their Possession All The Materials
Used in Attempting to Loot The Bank—Exciting Time
At Utica and Vicinity—Villagers and Farmers Deserving Great Praise for the Capture.

Four of the 8 men who dynamited the bank safe at Danville, Knox county, ten miles from Mt. Vernon on Tuesday morning, and attempted to loot the bank, were captured at Utica this morning and are under lock and key at Mt. Vernon.

It seems that Tuesday night the burglars entered the farm house of Samuel Beabout, who lives on the Martinsburg road, between Mt. Vernon and Utica, and stole all the edibles in the house, and got away without awakening the inmates.

It appears that the four desperadoes then went further along the road and stayed all night in Sidney Bell's barn. Mr. Bell found them there this morning and gave them their breakfast. The four men then left, but were followed by Sidney Bell, Charles Chuter and Jack Dudgeon, who suspected them of being the men who had attempted to burglarize the Danville bank. The men separated at this point, two taking the upper Martinsburg road and two the lower Martinsburg road. When the four men arrived in Utica, two at the upper and two at the lower end, the citizens, who had been put on to them by the three men who had followed them, and who were on the lookout for the burglars, arrested them on suspicion, turning out en masse to capture them, which they accomplished about eight o'clock this morning.

The two men entering the town at the upper end were captured by Joseph Clark, Chas. Bricker and Walter Harris, while the other two men entering the town from the south were caught by Marshal Shufelt, William Clark and C. D. McClelland.

The description of the men corresponds exactly with that of the burglars as they were seen fleeing from Danville after their ineffectual attempt to burglarize the bank. They wore dark clothes and dark hats and answered to the same general description of the burglars.

When the two men were captured in the upper part of Utica, one of them was seen to throw a half-burned fuse and a bottle supposed to have contained explosives into the bushes. A revolver which they had hidden under Robert McFarland's barn, was also found. A book was found on one of the men which contained the name of Wm. Powell. On another of the men a tin box with the name of James Lucas on it was found. The other two men gave their names as Harry Gordon and Charles Smith.

After the robbers had been securely locked in the jail some of the parties who assisted in the capture went back to Sidney Bell's barn, where they found a single barreled shotgun and a large quantity of cartridges.

The four men were all safely locked up in the jail at Utica. Sheriff Linn of Mt. Vernon was notified and he came down on the first train and took the prisoners to Mt. Vernon.

There seems to be no doubt that the right parties have been captured, and the vigilant citizens of Utica are jubilant over their great work.

These men are probably the same gang, or part of the same gang, that have been going around the country burglarizing banks in small places like Danville and others.

FURTHER DETAILS

Of the Attempted Robbery and the Captured Professor's Story.

Mt. Vernon, O., Oct. 16.—Eight desperate bank robbers blew the safe in the Danville Bank, belonging to A. I. Wolfe, between 2 and 3 o'clock Tuesday morning, wrecking the safe and the banking furniture, and were driven away by the citizens after a furious exchange of shots. The robbers secured no funds because they failed to reach the inner vault. The bank is located on South Market street, in a one-story brick building, and is a private bank, owned by Mr. Wolfe.

The force of the explosion wrecked the safe, the furniture and the building. One of the doors of the vault was blown through the front of the building and across the street.

In a few moments the citizens began to pour into the street armed with pistols and all sorts of weapons. Bells were rung to arouse those who were not already been awakened, and a pitched battle between the citizens and the robbers was precipitated, which lasted for over half an hour. At last the fight became too warm for the robbers, and they fled to the south.

At a point just south of Danville they had procured four rigs, one a mile off and in these they made their escape. The robbers were pursued all day and bloodhounds were brought from the County Infirmaries, but they could not carry the trail. Near Blainesburg the tracks showed that the gang had divided, part going in the direction of Coshocton and part toward Utopia. The robbers came to the Mohican Hills last Sunday and represented themselves as fishermen and secured particular notice.

Prof. C. W. Waugtel of the Danville College Institute, had a most thrilling experience. He was returning to his home about 1 o'clock this morning when he was captured by the burglars. When they learned his identity the burglars were exceedingly polite, and returned his purse, remarking that they didn't need a gentleman's money. Prof. Waugtel was bound and tied to a tree in front of the bank, where he remained under guard for over two hours.

While the fighting was going on he was fired upon by the citizens, who did not know his identity. He has two bullet holes in his left coat sleeve and numerous shots struck the tree around him.

"I promised to make an outcry to draw them from gagging me," said

Prof. Waugtel, "and after they had thoroughly gone through my clothes and pocketed all of my watch and money, the march to the bank was resumed. I recall that when we reached the bank building I looked at the clock across the street, and it was just two o'clock. The robbers placed me in front of the bank on the stone steps, still bound securely, and placed a guard over me. Then two of them began to break in the door of the bank building, while the remaining five scattered to different parts of the village to do sentinel duty. Not a sound disturbed us but the stealthy steps of the sentinels and the suppressed sounds of the men working at the vault.

Occasionally the sentinels came in and reported that all was well, and once they exchanged sentinels over me.

"At first the men were contented to call each other by familiar names, and I remember three of these. They were Scotty, Jack and Walter. Then the leader directed that they should go to their numbers after that. And Nos. 12 and 18 stood guard over me the remainder of that time. At 2:30 the first explosion occurred, but the bank withstood the effort. I heard some lady's voice cry out that there were robbers at the bank. I felt sure that relief would soon be at hand, but the alarm died out on the stillness and the robbers continued undisturbed. Some one gave the outcry and the sentinels came running in to report that the village was awake. The bells began to ring shortly, and it seemed to me that the whole village was aroused in a moment. Then the fusillade began.

"All this time I was bound in the midst of it. Fusillade after fusillade was exchanged. At last the citizens began to bring shotguns into use. Then I crawled into the gutter as best I could and crouched low until after the firing was over."

BANK RESUMED

Business in Nearby Building—Robbers Missed a Good Hour.

Mt. Vernon, Ohio, Oct. 16.—Mr. Wolf is doing business today in a building near the wrecked Danville Bank. He has sent for a new safe and as soon as the damaged bank building is repaired will resume business at his old stand. It is stated that the safe contained $30,000, an unusually large amount for a country bank to carry. The portion of the safe blown through the brick wall clear across the street weighed about 100 pounds.

OHIO GIRL

Traveling on Foot to Florida, Has Wonderful and Exciting Adventures, But Is Getting There.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 16.—Miss Jennie McQueston, of Xenia, O., who started to walk to Florida to visit relatives in the southern part of this state, will be here the last of the week. She is now at Canton, Ga., with a sprained ankle. She had wonderful and exciting adventures during the trip and in the mountains of Kentucky was taken for a revenue spy. She has made from 10 to 15 miles daily, and is in perfect health, having gained 20 pounds in weight. Farmers along the route gave her board and lodging. A big dog and a small pocket revolver were her only protectors. Only one fight with tramps calvened the trip.

MAUDE GONNE

The Irish Agitator is in Paris, and Has Not Gone to Cape Colony, as Was Reported.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Miss Maude Gonne, the Irish agitator, who was yesterday reported as having started for Cape Colony, is here. She is not going to South Africa, but says she will return to Ireland Friday next to resume her campaign against the enlistment of Irish in the British army.

SCHLEY

THE ADMIRAL TO RECEIVE FULL PAY

UNTIL THE CLOSE OF THE COURT OF INQUIRY

IS BEING GRANDLY VINDICATED.

Men of the Brooklyn Praise Their Commander's Conduct—Say He Was Brave to a Fault—Battle of Santiago Still the Theme Before the Naval Court.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Rear Admiral Schley will receive his full pay as senior rear admiral until the close of the court of inquiry. That is at the rate of $7,500 a year. When Schley was placed on the retired list a week ago, his salary under the law was reduced to $5,625, which is three quarters of the amount given him for active service. It was thought at the time that the department would officially assign him to attendance at the investigation, which would have entitled him to full pay. No action was taken for several days but the department then, by request, it is said, made the assignment, and the admiral's name was restored to its former place on the pay-roll. Admirals Benham and Ramsay are both on the retired list and receive full pay during their services as members of the court of inquiry.

Unless present plans are changed, Mr. Rayner will close Admiral Schley's case of the case in about a week. It is felt that nearly all the facts in the case have been pretty clearly established and that all that remains is the personal statement of Admiral Schley and of the officers closely connected with him regarding the campaign. Admiral Schley's own statement of course will be of the greatest importance. The present plan is to have him appear as the last witness in the case.

CAPT. COOK ON THE STAND.

Continuation of His Testimony Which Began Yesterday.

Washington, Oct. 16.—When Capt. A. Cook of the Brooklyn was called to the witness stand to correct his testimony, Hanna directed attention to Cook's statement that the Brooklyn's engines were uncoupled July 3 by order of Sampson.

"Do you mean to say that Sampson ordered the engines uncoupled?"

"That was my statement."

"Was it a written order?"

"I think the order was contained in the bulletin. It fixed the amount of steam to be carried, in the bulletin, I fixed the amount of steam to be carried and the rate of speed."

"Was anything said about uncoupling the engines?"

"My impression is that the matter was stated in the order."

"How nearly can you identify that bulletin?"

"I have only a general impression that it set forth that the forward engines should be uncoupled. We could not move the four engines with the amount of steam we were directed to carry. It may have been from that I got the impression that the forward engines should be uncoupled. The engines were uncoupled on all the ships."

"Did the squadron proceed from Cienfuegos to Santiago with all dispatch?"

"Throwing out the surrounding circumstances and conditions that have been testified to I should say no."

Mr. Rayner: But putting in the surrounding conditions and circumstances, would you answer me yes?"

Captain Cook: Yes."

"What do you mean by surrounding conditions?"

"I mean that we could have gone from Cienfuegos to Santiago and arrived the next day with some, if not all the large ships. The conditions against us were the weather and the inability to coal the Texas. We did not take the shortest possible route. Then there was the retrograde movement."

"Leaving that out, that last, what followed the fleet?" asked Rayner.

"The bad weather and consequently,"

HEARING

Of Mrs. Witwer at Dayton—Poison
Found in Stomach and Kidneys of Mrs. Pugh.

Dayton, O., Oct. 16.—The report of Professor Howard of Columbus, who made an examination of the stomach and kidneys of Mrs. Pugh will not be made public until the hearing of Mrs. Witwer in police court set for Friday morning. The indications now are that the hearing will go over until next week. Further than to say that in the stomach and kidneys of Mrs. Pugh he found traces of arsenic Prof. Howard made no positive statement. The stomach and one kidney taken from Mrs. Pugh's body soon after her death were not embalmed. Coroner Hatcher has Howard's report but refuses to discuss it prior to the police court hearing.

FOUND DEAD.

A Man and His Bride Believed to be Victims of Accidental Asphyxiation in New York.

New York, Oct. 16.—Wm. Joyce, and his bride of seven months, were found dead in their bed at the home of her parents, No. 883 Dean street, Brooklyn this morning. The gas was turned on and death was due to asphyxiation. Joseph Duff, the bride's brother, who went to his sister's room during the night believes he accidentally turned on the gas. The young fellow is nearly crazed with grief.

Betting on Tammany.

New York Oct. 16.—Betting on the election now favors Shepley for Mayor at $10 to $8. Several large bets at this figure were made yesterday on Wall Street. C. M. Minzeheimer announces that he has $15,000 to bet on Shepley. He wagered $2,000 against $1,600 yesterday.

STORY OF MURDER AND ROBBERY.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 16.—The death of Mrs. Levi develops a story of murder and robbery. She lived in Burroughs, a negro settlement, where she and her husband conducted a business for years. Six months ago her husband died. She was afraid to trust the banks and had about $2,000 hidden about the place in tobacco bags. She was found dead yesterday and the bags in which she kept her money were scattered about the floor. Legree, the negro mayor of Burroughs is making every effort to ferret out the murderers.

FOR PRESIDENT.

Tom Johnson is Nominated by Delegates of the National Bottlers' Association at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 16.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson was nominated for president yesterday morning while the assembled delegates representing every state in the Union stood up and cheered. The nomination was made by President Hugo, of the National Bottlers' association, which is in convention here and which the Mayor welcomed on the part of the city. In presenting the Mayor to the convention Hugo said: "Gentlemen, let me introduce to you a man who is not of Cleveland, not of Ohio, but of the Nation. Although he is now the Mayor of this city I see in no distant date a time when the whole Nation will call upon him to act as their chief executive."

The Mayor bowed to this flattering introduction, but announced that he had no ambitions in the direction indicated.

BURNED.

Industrial Building at Gallipolis Hospital Destroyed by Fire, Causing Serious Loss.

Gallipolis, O., Oct. 16.—The industrial building at the epileptic hospital was burned last night, entailing a loss of $100,000. All of the experiments made by Dr. Ohlmacher, the chemist, and his instruments were consumed. There were no patients in the building.

A COT

BROUGHT INTO COURT FOR JUDGE CANTRILL,

WHO IS ILL AND FEARED WILL BREAK DOWN.

SENSATION IN POWERS TRIAL

For the Murder of Governor Goebel.
Threatening Another Bloody Chapter to the Tragedy—Guard Ordered Around Cantrill's House and the Judge Being Closely Watched.

Georgetown, Ky., Oct. 16.—Judge Cantrill is being closely guarded as a result of an incident that occurred Monday night. The judge is ill and it was feared he was about to break down. Mrs. Cantrill ordered a cot brought into the court house for him to use in such event so that he would not be compelled to adjourn court.

When the cot was being carried into the court house Monday night three men described as probably mountaineers, approached the men carrying the cot and asked who it was for.

"Judge Cantrill," was the reply.

"That's right," replied one of the strangers. "He'll need it before the case is over."

Prosecuting Attorney Franklin immediately ordered a guard around Cantrill's house and the judge is being closely watched. Threatening letters have been received by both Judge Cantrill and Prosecutor Franklin, and even their wives have been victims of these letter writers.

The most important witness in the Powers case yesterday was Mrs. Francis Hefner, who last night testified to having seen a messenger lay on the capital steps immediately after Governor Goebel was shot, and also saw Powers.

DESERTER

Saw His Sweetheart and Then Surrendered to be Returned to Fort Sheridan.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 16.—Unable longer to remain away from his sweetheart, Mary Shaw, of this city, Elmer Harmon, 24 years old, deserted from the United States army at Fort Sheridan, Chicago, and after working several weeks on a farm near Chicago to procure money, came to Muncie. He visited his sweetheart and then surrendered to the police to be taken to Fort Sheridan.

COL. KILBOURNE

Made a Social Visit to Zanesville Today, Accompanied by Our Popular Senator "Billy" Miller.

Colonel James Kilbourne passed through the city on the B. & O. noon train today on a social visit to Zanesville, where he is to be handsomely entertained by the citizens of that city this evening.

A special invitation was sent here to Senator "Billy" Miller to join Col. Kilbourne and accompany him on the trip. Mr. Miller joined the Colonel's party at the B. & O. station. They were handsomely received by a reception committee of Zanesville's business men and prominent citizens.

BOLD ROBBERY IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 16.—In broad daylight yesterday afternoon burglars entered the house occupied by Mrs. L. French and Mrs. Agard. They brutally beat the women insensible and got away with $3,000 of personal property. The women lived alone. There is no trace of the robbers.

GLASS WORKERS STRIKE.

Elwood, Ind., Oct. 16.—Because the glass used was not up to the standard, nearly 700 men struck at the lamp chimney factory of the Macbeth-Evers company last night.

STEEL TRUST PROFIT.

The Wall street correspondent of the Philadelphia Press puts the net earnings of the steel trust for the six months ending Oct. 1 at $55,000,000, or at the rate of $110,000,000 a year.

The steel trust is capitalized at $1,000,000,000, so that its net earnings are 11 per cent on capital and water. The net earnings of the concerns now forming the trust for the previous year were $45,000,000.

The net profits of the trust were increased $65,000,000, and the consumers, because competition had been destroyed were forced to hand that amount over to the trust.

In 1900 the $45,000,000 was divided among several thousand comparatively small holders. In 1901 at least $100,000,000 of the $110,000,000 net profit will be divided between not more than fifteen heavy holders and chief officials, and the ten millions will go to the small holders.

Thus the trust not only robs the consumers of from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 annually, but is concentrating the wealth of the country at that rate in the hands of the few.

And yet the Republican leaders of Ohio ask the voters to close their eyes to their own interests and vote to endorse the policy that made this trust and others like it possible.

THE DANGER OF PARTISAN CORRUPTION.

In his admirable address, recently published, Hon. M. E. Ingalls said:

"The political ascendancy of one party by as large a majority as we have had for some years is an element of danger. The safest condition for a republic is to have two parties, strong and evenly divided; then neither side will go very far wrong for fear of opposition."

In substantiation of this a distinguished Pennsylvanian, in the Atlantic Monthly for October, draws a startling picture of the awful partisan corruption in that state.

Pennsylvania is declared to be "politically the most corrupt state in the Union." A Philadelphia editor of large experience is quoted as saying: "Pennsylvania has every kind of political devilry I ever saw or heard of elsewhere and a few more that she has evolved herself." The article bristles with illustrations of the widespread and deep-rooted corruption in the state, and the seeming hopelessness of reform.

Unfortunately for the sake of decency, every charge made is true, and the situation is infinitely blacker than it is painted. Pennsylvania has been overwhelmingly Republican in every department for 25 years. It casts the largest Republican majority of any state in the Union. This majority increases each year. And each year the corruption grows more black and infamous. The chief crime in Pennsylvania today is to believe in political honesty. In Ohio Democrats are charged with disloyalty for denouncing the corrupt methods of the Republican bosses who want to enter Ohio in the Pennsylvania class.

WHO ARE RESPONSIBLE?

The Republican newspapers have much to say against the presence of foreign anarchists in this country; who threaten the public peace from time to time, and who, if they did not conspire with the assassin of President McKinley, rejoiced in and praised the deed.

Nor can there be any reasonable objection to their present attitude toward this dangerous element. But for some unexplained reason these Republican organs endeavor to make it appear that the Democratic party ought to be held responsible for the assassin and his sympathizers.

But why? They do not explain. When did the Paterson group of anarchists, and the Chicago group, and the Cleveland group, and the Pittsburgh and the various other groups, come to the United States?

They began to arrive some twenty years ago.

Who brought them, and under what circumstances were they introduced?

They were brought under contract by the heads of several great corporations, which are now united into a few great trusts. These importers of foreign labor are among the foremost leaders of the Republican party and have absolutely dictated its policy for a decade.

These anarchists along with other undesirable persons who are not anarchists, but are still undesirable as citizens, were brought into this country for the purpose of "breaking the strike" of American workmen, the object being to have two men for each job and play them against each other, for the purpose of breaking down organized labor and reducing wages.

This is the true and plain reason why these anarchist groups are in America. Workingmen themselves begin to understand this matter. It is hardly probable that they can be led to vote against the Democratic candidates as a rebuke of the anarchists, imported into this country by the Republican leaders to aid in breaking up the influence and efficiency of labor unions.

SOCIAL CLUB ORGANIZED.

On Monday evening October 14, a number of young people met at the home of Miss Bertha Berger, 58 Jefferson street, and organized a club to be known as the O. K. club. Following are the members with the respective officers:

President, Anna Harold.
Vice Pres., Bessie Berger.
Secretary, Ada Kemp.
Asst. Sec., Katie Honebarger.
Treasurer, Lizzie Reinbold.
Mabel Cochran, May Wilson, Laura Bliss, Rosa Wilson.

Britons Too Slow.

London, Oct. 16.—Lord Rosebery, speaking at Birmingham on the necessity of Great Britain being better equipped in political and commercial education, dwelt upon the "dangers of British complacency." He urged his countrymen to imitate the United States, and referred to the "restless enterprise of the Americans, their devouring anxiety to improve existing machinery and methods, and the apparent impossibility of accumulating any fortune, however gigantic, which shall satisfy or be sufficient to allow of leisure and repose."

Fight Was a Fake.

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—Clarence Ritchie of St. Louis won on foul from Oscar Gardner, the "Omaha Kid," in the third round of what was to have been a 15-round bout, before the Olympic Athletic club. The go was as palpable a fake as was ever pulled off in a ring, and the crowd had been worked into a rage long before the culmination of hostilities. They yelled for their money back, and when it was not forthcoming they left the hall in high dudgeon.

HEART DISEASE.

Some Facts Regarding the Rapid Increase of Heart Trouble.

Heart troubles, at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing, and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable, but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic.

The close relation between heart trouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric.

In another way, also, the heart is affected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half digested food. There is a feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with their action, hence arises palpitation and short breath.

Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery, which irritates and weakens the heart.

The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use after meals of some safe, pleasant and effective digestive preparation, like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which may be found at most drug stores, and which contain valuable, harmless digestive elements in a pleasant convenient form.

It is safe to say that the regular persistent use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at meal time will cure any form of stomach trouble except cancer of the stomach.

Full sized package of these tablets sold by druggists at 50 cents. Little book on stomach troubles mailed free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. Oct. 16-18-23-25

Russia Will Assist.

Constantinople, Oct. 16.—The Russian government has repeated its expression of a desire to assist the United States government by all practical means in rescuing Miss Stone. The other powers are equally solicitous, but Russia is the best able to bring the necessary pressure to bear. Messrs. Baird and Haskell, the missionaries, have not yet succeeded in getting into touch with the brigands or opening negotiations.

Macedonians Suspected.

Constantinople, Oct. 16.—The belief is growing here that the Bulgarian and not the Turkish government is responsible for the retention of Miss Stone, whose capture was committed with the connivance of the Macedonian agitators, if not with that of the higher authorities. The attitude of the latter toward brigand bands is most suspicious, and very different from what it was during the time of Stambuloff.

Duke's Sudden Death.

New York, Oct. 16.—The Duke of Alba, 53, one of the highest grandees of Spain, died from heart failure at his apartments in the Holland House. The duke came to this city on Sept. 21 to witness the international yacht races, as the guest of Sir Thomas Lipton. On the day of the last race he contracted a severe cold, which developed into influenza.

Submarine Boat Experiments.

London, Oct. 16.—Continuing the experiments with the first British submarine vessel, the admiralty caused six men to be sealed in the boat as she lay outside the water. The compressed air cylinders were set going and after three hours the air-tight hatch was opened, when it was found that the men had suffered but little discomfort.

Outbreaks in Spain.

Madrid, Oct. 16.—An extraordinary meeting of the cabinet was held under the presidency of the queen regent to consider the outbreaks in Seville and elsewhere. Fresh disturbances are reported at Seville. A mob that was storming the Convent of St. Saviour was dispersed by troops, but not until the door of the convent had been burned. Martial law will probably be extended to other towns where revolutionary disorders are occurring.

Feudists Released.

Tazewell, Tenn., Oct. 16.—John Morgan, James Estep and Robert Brooks were arrested and arraigned for trial on the charge of killing Alwaine and Tipton Chadwell in the Chadwell-Morgan feud Sunday of last week. The trial, however, failed to materialize, as Isaac Chadwell, brother of the dead men, who was prosecutor in the case, appeared and withdrew the warrants. This ended the proceeding.

Insurance on King's Life.

London, Oct. 16.—The Daily Chronicle learns that a syndicate of tradesmen and others who would lose largely in the event of the coronation not occurring have effected insurance on the life of King Edward for a year for a very large sum, at Lloyd's, at the rate of 10 guineas per centum.

THIEF AND HERO

"They are playing high today," said one of the habitués of the club to me. I turned round toward the table to watch the game and was so surprised at the sight of one of the players that I almost exclaimed.

"It was a young man of some twenty-two or twenty-three years of age, whom I knew by sight. I was very much interested in him, for his father had fought courageously at Magenta and had been killed on the field of battle, leaving his widow and son by no means well provided for. The young man came very rarely to the club and I had never seen him touch a card before. I was stupefied, therefore, to see him holding the bank, and a good bank it was, too, for there were plenty of notes and gold coins heaped up in front of him.

"How much?" called out one of the players.

"Oh! laughed a wealthy farmer. 'M. de Mertens is in luck's way. He can safely keep his bank open.'

"I noticed that the young man's face was deadly pale and there was an excited look in his eyes.

"Open bank," he said. And it seemed as though the very words changed the luck.

"Ten times running Mertens lost, and in a quarter of an hour his bank was cleared. Another man took his place and the play went on. It got so excited that I, too, was fascinated and joined in. There was no room to sit down at the table, so I continued standing, holding my hat in my hand and throwing my winnings into it. I had a run of luck and went on playing in the most excited way until I was startled by some one calling out, 'You are being robbed, captain!'

"I started and instinctively seized a hand which had knocked against mine through my sudden movement. It was M. de Mertens' hand, and he held the £40 note which he had just taken out of my hat. The wretched man's face was convulsed with emotion. Our eyes met. His were dilated with terror, and there was a look in them that seemed to hold me spellbound.

"M. de Mertens is my partner," I said laughingly to the man who had warned me, and I am surprised that you should dare to bring such an accusation against a gentleman whose reputation is so well known."

"The individual who had called out did not know M. de Mertens at all. We had all been standing round the table close to each other, and on seeing another player put his hand into my hat it was very natural that the man should have thought it his duty to warn me. On hearing my explanation he apologized most humbly to M. de Mertens, and several of the acquaintances of the latter gathered around and expressed their regret that such an insult should have been offered him.

"We then continued our play, and M. de Mertens soon after left the club. Three days passed, and I heard nothing more of the young man. In shielding him as I had done, my first thought had been of his father, and I had determined to save from disgrace the name of the brave soldier of Magenta. Of course I could quite understand that the young man should now shrink from seeing me again, but still it struck me as rather strange that in some way, either direct or indirect, he did not attempt to express his thanks.

"One evening, however, just as I was going out to pay some visits, my orderly informed me that a lady wished to see me. I went into the drawing room, and there I found a woman of about forty-five years of age. She was very dignified looking, and there was an open, honest expression about her face which fascinated me.

"I am Mme. de Mertens," she said simply. "My son told me everything about the affair at the club, and I have come to thank you with all my heart for having preserved for us intact the honor of our name."

"Madame!" I began; but she interrupted me in her emotion and nervousness.

"My son had got entangled in various ways, and in desperation had taken to play. It appears he had lost every penny he possessed that night. You know the rest, alas!"

"I felt very much embarrassed, for the poor mother's grief was terrible to witness.

"He is young, madame. You must not take it to heart so," I stammered. It was just a moment's weakness. I will see your son, and—

"No, captain," she said, shaking her head sadly. "He is no longer here. * * * He has enlisted and is already on his way with the regiment."

We had all been listening attentively to Captain Joubert's story, and when he stopped speaking there was silence for a few minutes.

"And what happened to M. de Mertens, captain?"

"He is dead. * * * Six months ago I received a letter from Kelung—a pitiful little letter—written with very pale ink and on a sheet of paper that was all crumpled and yellow with age. There were only a few lines for me to read. I knew them by heart. They were as follows:

"I am mortally wounded. The colonel (Courbet) has just brought me the cross; but * * * I am dying. I am sending it to you, my poor cross * * * for you saved me, and I should like you to wear it! * * *

Becoming Serious

BY BARRY PAINE.

"I'm getting awfully old," said my cousin Elsa, with a mournful droop of her beautiful eyelashes. I said nothing.

"It's a terrible thing for an unmarried girl to grow old," she continued. "One isn't always as old as one looks," I observed. And it appeared that it was not the right thing. It is too wearisome to say the right thing to Elsa—she asks for it too much, and is used to it too much. Besides, I know her too well.

"Yes," she said bitterly, "when I've lost my self respect and broken my heart I'm right to come to you. You're so sweetly sympathetic. A palmist in London refused to believe I was more than twenty-three."

"Those palmists earn their money. As for self respect, I don't think you ever had much. As for heart, I know you never had any. I've no sympathy with you, and believe you ought to be doing a turn of penal servitude. Lots of convicts have less on their conscience. I gather you're in a mess again, and from regard for your family I'll give you good advice."

"Of course, you don't understand me in the last. Nobody ever has understood me properly. If I had ever come across one man who understood me I would have married him. Never mind looks or age or position or money—I would have married him just because he understood me."

"I expect that leaked out. Well, if the men misunderstand you, you've only yourself to thank."

"If you could only imagine how that vulgar chaff jars me at present. And it's so silly, too—almost every man I've met would have been glad to marry me. I was saying—I've not really been what I seemed to be. I've been thought frivolous, and heartless, and capricious, and vain."

"Well, at this period of our acquaintance, you're not going to tell me that you're not just exactly that."

"I'm not at all like that. I've had the appearance of it sometimes to people who have not known the circumstances. The only thing I could accuse myself of would be slight frivolity. But all the time the frivolous me hasn't been the real me. You understand?"

"Not in the least."

"Well, you will, because the real me is coming out now. I'm becoming serious. Perhaps it's because I'm growing so old. Anyhow, I can see all the folly and emptiness of the city way of living now. I want to—"

"One moment: when you went on your dandelion hunt the other afternoon all by your lone self, where did you meet him?"

"He never came. And I didn't want him either."

"Seems to have been a bit too much for you, which one was it?"

"Aynscote."

"I thought it was the talented foreigner—the man with the fiddle. You're a bit difficult to follow—so rapid. So it's Aynscote, is it? Well, you're playing with fire there."

"She looked pleased. 'Really? What do you mean?'

"Well, he's a moody beggar at the best of times; reckless too. Mind, if he does it he'll do it decently. May possibly take his gun out alone before breakfast and manage a fatal accident in getting over a stile. Nobody will know except him and you—and me."

"You can't mean that?"

"It's the kind of thing that has happened."

"I've never had a man actually kill himself for me. I've had three leave the country, but that was all."

"You seem to rather like the idea."

"How can you say such horrible and unjust things? I wouldn't have it happen for anything in the world. Still, it is only natural to be pleased at a compliment. A man doesn't kill himself for nothing. But it won't be."

"Probably not. It doesn't happen once in a thousand times that a man goes that length. Still, of course, Aynscote—but we won't discuss it."

"She reflected for a minute or two. 'I'll forgive him tonight after dinner,' she said, 'if it really is a good excuse. But I do hate men.'"

MOLINEUX

BELIEF IN NEW YORK HE WILL SOON BE FREE

Without the Testimony Excluded by the Court of Appeals He Cannot Be Convicted.

New York, Oct. 16.—Roland B. Molineux's lawyers expect that their client will vacate the death cell at Sing Sing prison and be back in the toms here within 48 hours. There are several legal formalities to be observed, but they will be rushed through with all possible speed.

There is a feeling here that Molineux will not have to face a jury again on the charge of having murdered Katherine J. Adams. Lawyers say that without the testimony excluded by the court of appeals Molineux cannot be convicted and that it will be a useless expenditure of money to try him again. His first trial cost the county $100,000. District Attorney Philbin says he will carefully study the court of appeals decision and will then decide whether or not to try the prisoner again.

Harry Cornish, Molineux's chief accuser, is among those who believe that Molineux will soon be free. According to his friends he has predicted that Molineux, like Dr. Kennedy, would get a new trial, and that he would never be convicted again.

INTERVIEW WITH HIS FATHER.

New York, Oct. 16.—General F. L. Molineux, father of Roland B. Molineux, said last night that the granting of an appeal of his son's case meant that Roland would be exonerated of the charge of poisoning Mrs. Kate J. Adams, and expressed his hope that the real poisoners might soon be pointed out.

"I know that my son is innocent, and also who the guilty one is," said the General. "I hope soon to be able to point him out publicly. I will devote my life to proving the innocence of Roland. In fact, I can neither get sick nor die until this has been established beyond all doubt. Roland and I will clear the name of Molineux from the stain upon it. You cannot doubt that I am a brave man and do you think I am afraid to die? No. Nor is my boy. He has been both brave and patient in all this trouble."

ROCKHILL

THE SPECIAL COMMISSIONER AR-RIVES FROM CHINA

En Route to Washington With Copy of Protocol Signed by China and the Powers.

Victoria, B. C., Oct. 16.—Special Commissioner W. W. Rockhill arrived from China last night en route to Washington with a copy of the protocol signed between China and the powers. He stated that conditions in China are normal and that business is being resumed. The Chinese are pacified. Disturbances in the interior are local and without national significance.

There is much suffering and death from famine and floods in Shansi, but reports sent out from other portions of the empire are greatly exaggerated.

While Li Hung Chang retains his mental vigor, he is breaking down physically and suffers from indigestion.

The steamer Empress of Japan on which Rockhill arrived reports a pitched battle on September 30 between Imperial Chinese forces under General Tsen and a force of 7,000 insurgents near Hsinho in Chi Li, sixty miles south of Pao Ting Fu. Thirty rebels were killed and many wounded. The remainder fled. Several villages were taken by the troops.

The North China News states that there is much military activity by Russia in the north. A number of troops were sent south where it is believed they will be massed on the Korean frontier. The Japanese minister to Peking Komura, who has returned to Tokyo, states that there are 40,000 Russian troops in Manchuria. As soon as the Chinese court is established in Peking the question of evacuation by Russia will be taken up.

TRIBUTE TO DR. HARTZLER

BY THE SUPERINTENDENT AND TEACHERS

Of Newark Public Schools—Appropriate Expression by the Committee Appointed.

The undersigned committee, appointed to represent the teachers of the public schools in an expression of regret at the death of Dr. Joshua C. Hartzler, desire to put on record the following sentiments in appreciation of his great worth as a superintendent of schools, an educator, a scholar, and a gentleman:

The public schools of Newark are largely a monument to him, reflecting his cherished interests and ideas. For nearly a quarter of a century he watched over their development, seeing them grow from the modest number of twenty-four rooms to more than seventy. The courses of study were expanded under his direction; the high school came into prominence as a modern institution; new buildings were erected and the old ones modernized; most of the present corps of teachers pursued their studies at school under his watchful care, and were trained afterwards by him in their professional duties as instructors. Dr. Hartzler meantime came to be one of the Nestors of his calling in the educational circles of the state, and his ability attracted merited attention also from the school authorities of neighboring states. As a public speaker, Dr. Hartzler was always ready, armed with a deep fund of wisdom, a ready flow of choicest language, and an inspiring voice and presence. He possessed a natural dignity, which a keen sense of humor never marred. His influence for good was far reaching, and he lived in this community long enough to see many instances of the best results ensuing from his protracted efforts.

In industry he was unflinching, and the advance of years seemed not to dim his zeal. He set for himself the highest plane of thought and action, attained and kept it. Amid the costly flowers that surrounded his casket in profusion none was more expressive of the general perception of personal loss than the modest handful of masterpieces brought that day as a tribute of love from a little boy, whose mother could not spare him any money for the common offering, but who went to the fields and gathered what he could, and offered them with his tears.

When he came to us, the struggle of his early life had developed, chiefly, the sterner virtues, thus laying a splendid foundation. He was then an upright man, strong-willed, inflexible; a man whom all respected and honored, but one whom many feared. As the years passed, more kindly influences transformed the rigid man into the gentle man, so that the humblest child could bring his own little grief to Dr. Hartzler, confident that in him he had a true friend, and that from him he should receive a courteous and sympathetic hearing. His specialty, noticing and always speaking to the little ones endeared him to them. To many of the youth of our city he was an ideal. As a friend, he was kind, generous, helpful, sympathetic, always ready to assist in whatever way was needed. His own untiring labors were a constant source of inspiration to his teachers. They deemed it indeed a great privilege to come under the influence of such a man, both as pupils and as teachers. That he held them as his friends will ever be to them the greatest honor.

We cannot easily estimate the value of such a life as was Dr. Hartzler's. If it be true, as has often been said, that each of us as we live exerts an influence for good or ill that reaches on into infinity, then truly the world is now and shall ever be the better for his having lived.

We share the sorrow of the loved ones left behind, the widow and the daughters, the brother and sister, and other kin, assuring them of our deep and respectful sympathy.

BILTMORE HOUSE FROM NORTH APPROACH.

George W. Vanderbilt has at last succeeded in buying out the negro neighbor who for years stubbornly refused to sell his little five acre plot located in the middle of the Biltmore estate. Charles Collins, a colored hack driver, is the man who blocked for so long the multimillionaire's plans. Mr. Collins declared as his reason for refusing to sell that he had always wanted just such a neighbor as Mr. Vanderbilt.

WHAT CAPTAINS OF INDUSTRY OWE THE HIGHER EDUCATION

By WILLIAM T. HARRIS,
United States Commissioner of Education

THE great captains of industry sometimes complain of the number of students just graduated from colleges who apply to them for positions. They do not reflect on the entire significance of higher education, and it does not occur to them that all of THE TECHNICAL SPECIFICATIONS NECESSARY IN THEIR EXTENSIVE BUSINESS HAVE TO BE MADE AND SUPERVISED BY STUDENTS who have taken technical courses.

They do not reflect that in the enormous combinations of business, with a view to eliminate waste and leakage, collisions arise, one corporation struggling against another. Every step in the conduct of its affairs has to be carefully scanned by legal experts, by men who have graduated from law schools. The business management of a railroad in a single southern state requires over 200 lawyers, not to attend to its cases in the courts, but expressly to prevent the possibility of cases of trespass on the part of the railroad. There is a thread of legal advice, therefore, intertwined in the entire business management of the railroad. In the struggles of one business man with his competitors it is necessary that every step should be studied carefully in its legal bearing, for it is essential to great combinations in manufacture or trade or transportation that they shall avoid the expensive and wasteful outlay of their means in litigation in the courts.

SOMETIMES IT IS ALMOST AMUSING TO HEAR A GREAT BUSINESS MAN TALK OF THE USELESSNESS OF HIGHER EDUCATION WHEN THE FACT IS OBVIOUS THAT THE HOSTS OF LEGAL ADVISERS IN HIS EMPLOY ARE ESSENTIAL TO KEEP HIM OUT OF JAIL.

Following out the history of students who have graduated from high schools and colleges we trace them into the positions of secretaries, superintendencies of labor, into the offices of architects, engineers, legal advisers. Besides these positions there are many others that have grown within a few years, many, in fact, that began last year or have begun since the first of this year.

Lipton Banqueted.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—At the Chicago Athletic club a banquet was given in honor of Sir Thomas Lipton, and he was also made the recipient of a massive silver loving cup presented by his Chicago friends. For an hour prior to commencement of the banquet Sir Thomas held a reception in the parlors of the clubhouse and exchanged greetings with hundreds of men prominent in business and professional circles, who called to pay their respects to the owner of the Shamrock. The rooms were hung with flags of the International signal code and many American and British emblems intertwined.

Fatal Collision.

Des Moines, Oct. 16.—A head-on collision which took place on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul road, near Fayette, killed Engineer Culbertson, seriously wounded Conductor Haefer, and two members of the Highland college football team, Miller and Henry, were injured.

Kruger's Condition.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—The Muenchner Zeitung prints a dispatch from Hilversum which says that Mr. Kruger, in spite of denials, is severely ill.

Oak Leaves For Waldersee.

Berlin, Oct. 16.—Emperor William has conferred on Field Marshal Count Von Waldersee the Order of Pour le Merite, with oak leaves.

Important Arrest.

Delaware, O., Oct. 16.—A suspect held by the police is believed to be R. H. Kohler, who is wanted by the officers at Sharon, Pa., on the charge of embezzling a large sum of money. Detectives have been on his trail for some time, as he is believed to have been implicated in a 1900 or 1901 job in the east.

Wanted Hush Money.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—Don and John Parsons and Edward Mitchell, three young men, are under arrest charged with blackmail. They attempted to extort $1,000 hush money from Joseph J. Tanian, a merchant, and were trapped by detectives. The men confessed.

Child Run Down.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—Alma Strelzer, 3-year-old daughter of Frank Strelzer, was struck by a train and killed at the fateful Fifth avenue crossing in this city.

Fell From a Tree.

Ravenna, O., Oct. 16.—David R. Evans, 52, met death near his home in Palmyra, 12 miles east of here, by falling from a tree. His skull was crushed.

Bleachers.

Sunlight is the best of all bleachers. Those in common use in the laundry, such as sal soda, ammonia, borax, turpentine, chloride of lime, javelle water, etc., have generally both good and bad qualities, which are dependent to a great extent upon how and for what purpose they are used.

They Were Not Indians.

It is said that when the first Chinese came to California the Indians were very curious about them. A dispute arose among some of them as to what country the strangers might hail from and whether or not they were Indians. The Indians, wise as the Puritans of old, decided to apply the water test. If the accused swam, they were witches; if they drowned, they were innocent.

One day a party of Indians met a party of Chinamen approaching a little stream. The strangers approached the bridge and started across. The Indians, too, fled across and, meeting the Chinamen in midstream, pushed two of them into the angry, spuming current below. The test was conclusive. They could not swim. They were not Indians.

THE RACES

SPLENDID WEATHER AND FINE
SPORT ON THE FIRST DAY.

Both the Trotting and Pacing Events
Split Up Into Extra Heats—Exciting Finishes.

The first day's racing at the Old Fort under the auspices of the Newark Driving Park Association, was fairly well attended, and those who were present witnessed as good a day's sport as was ever seen on that track.

The Judges were Amos Groves, Geo. Taylor and N. E. VanAtta, while William Priest and Charles Brown held the watches.

The starting of Mr. Lew Jack, of Blanchester, O., was entirely satisfactory.

The two races on the program furnished exciting finishes in every heat, and it was seen that the drivers were out to win.

In the 2:17 pace after Dolly Carr had won two heats and Dick R one, the latter horse was posted in the books on odds on favorite for the fourth heat, at 2 to 5, with Dolly Carr at even, the others bringing from 5 to 8 to 1.

Dick R won in an exciting finish and for the fifth heat he was a prohibitive favorite the best that could be had being 10 to 1. This heat and the race was won by the game son of Royal Dictator in a fierce drive.

The 2:27 trot was unfinished, five heats being raced. Lady Lillian and Elyrivade each won two and Sea Breeze one heat.

The race will be finished at 1 o'clock Wednesday, the three heat winners being the only starters. Lady Lillian was a hot favorite for the race selling in the pools for 100, the field 55, Sea Breeze having a good following. The following are the summaries:

THE GRIGGS STORE.

Like All Good Things, What Does It Mean?

What does an increase of over fifty per cent. in this October cloak business mean? There is only one reason for it. We anticipated a big season and we are ready for it. You can get any kind of a Wrap here. If you want a rain coat, or a short coat, or a three-quarter length, or a full length, or a nice cape, or a snit, or a fine jacket you can get it here, and in every style to suit everybody. This is the whv.

Some Stores show Only Short Goats

Others only long coats. They say other styles are not worn. This is a mistake. They are— We are showing all kinds and selling all kinds from 27 inches (nothing shorter) to 56 inches long. If you want a coat for $10 we can give you a fine assortment in colors and lengths at this price. If you want to pay $15 the variety is more varied. And the assortment ranging in price at $20, $25, $29, &c. covers the entire range of the choicest effects.

Have You Seen The New York Storm Coats?

Loose in the back, made the full length of the dress, stamped with the "Cravenette Co's," trade mark—absolutely waterproof, in beautiful Oxfords and Greys and having the same dressy effect as a tailored overcoat. So much in demand in the East is this cloth that our order was canceled twice by the manufacturer before he could get the cloth. We have them now on exhibition from $15 up.

A Magnificent Display of Silk Skirts

Everybody don't want to buy silk skirts at $25, $35, $40 and $50 a piece—but some do.—We have arranged for a showing of these handsome pieces and will display them in our cloak department tomorrow—one of a kind—and we promise not to duplicate any of them.

Some Drapery Prices Halved.

Our drapery efforts have been appreciated—our sale this week has made a busy corner here.

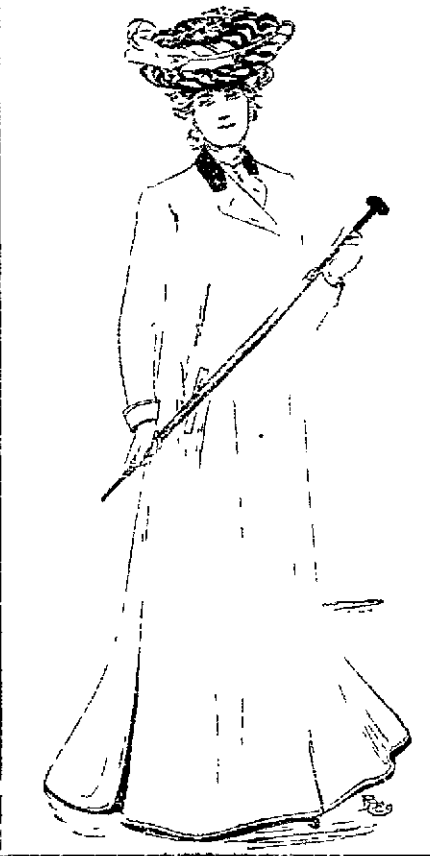

25c Hungarian Cloths 15c a yard.

These are dark, rich oriental designs and popular priced at this reduced price.

Yard wide C. etones 10c a yard.

15c white satin striped Swisses 10c a yard. Five choice designs in sheer Swisses such as we always sell at 15c have been placed with some dotted Swisses at 10c a yard.

The exclusive handlers of the Fine Woolex Garments.

Childrens' Underwear.

2 cases grey all sizes 20c each. An offer that covers all sizes for childrens' wear—warm, heavy underwear that usually sells during the winter, at 25c, 40c and 35c will be placed at the one price for all sizes of 20c a garment.

Heavy Outing Cloths 8c a yard.

2300 yards of our 10c Outing will be thrown over our Bargain Tables tomorrow at 8c a yard—in lights, darks and such an assortment as you would know might come in this quantity.

Remember our plea if possible and come for Cloaks in the morning

Railway Notes.

After January 1 the railroads will not accept as baggage anything but luggage containing personal effects, which accompany the owner. The express companies have been making a kick over the indiscriminate checking of articles as baggage which under no stretch of imagination could be considered as such.

The railroad yards at Pittsburg are congested with freight and there is a car famine there. It is said that if not a found of freight was given the roads for a week they would just about be able to clear their tracks.

Since the first of September the Southern Pacific has placed orders for 1,000 box cars, 2,500 flat cars, 250 furniture cars, 500 stock cars, 500 oil tank cars, 500 gondolas and 100 Rodgor ballast cars, making a total of 3,550 cars to be added to the freight equipment.

The B. & O. has turned its old station at Wheeling into a testing laboratory. C. W. Boynton, inspector of supplies, has about completed the plant. It will be used for the entire system and H. J. Hill of Chicago, now with the Chesapeake and Ohio, will be in charge.

Regarding the rumors that the Pennsylvania has secured control of the stock of the Norfolk & Western, it is said that, while this may be true, it will not be definitely known until the annual report of the Pennsylvania in March discloses the fact.

Brakeman R. Schmutz of the C. O. division who has been laying off for some days has been marked up for work.

Conductor J. P. Trickey of the C. O. division is off on leave of absence. Brakeman F. E. Lovell of the L. E. division who has been off for some time has O. K. for duty.

Conductor A. I. Woodard of the Shawnee division after having been off for some time, has returned to work.

Brakeman Lon Lloyd of the L. E. division is off on leave of absence.

George L. Steeritt was in Columbus on Tuesday.

Charles Senk and George Isler attended the races at Columbus on Tuesday.

George Williams of Summitville, Ind., and H. Hall of Gas City, Ind., are the guests of John F. Tobin. They are on their way to Cincinnati.

Conductor Thomas McInerney who has been off duty for a short time has resumed.

Brakeman L. O. Borroway of the C. O. division is off on leave of absence. Brakeman B. Dorn, who has been laying off for some days, taking a much needed rest, has returned to work.

Brakeman H. O. Congdon of the L. E. division, is working again after a short absence.

Brakeman J. F. Mills, J. H. Harber, T. W. Stokely, T. H. Stewart, U. S. Schutts, and B. Dock have all been marked up for work.

BOARD OF HEALTH PROCLAMATION.

To the Parents of School Children: At a meeting of the Board of Health held on Monday evening, it was ordered that all the schools in the city be closed, and that parents keep their children off the street of the city on account of an epidemic of small pox in the city.

United Mine Workers.

Indianapolis, Oct. 16.—Arrangements are now being made for the annual convention of the United Mine Workers of America, and the joint convention of miners and operators here. The indications are now that it will be the largest convention ever held by organized labor. At the last convention there were over 1,000 delegates, but this time there will be between 1,500 and 1,800, as the organization has grown rapidly during the last year. The prolonged strike in the Thacker and other West Virginia fields is said to have had much the same basis. The miners had hoped to get the operators from Kentucky and West Virginia to meet with them in joint convention at the result of the steel strike may encourage these operators to remain out, in the hope of eventually being able to overcome the organization.

Rathbone-Neeley Case.

Havana, Oct. 16.—The indictments in the Havana postoffice fraud cases, by the fiscal to the audience implicate Estes G. Rathbone jointly with C. F. W. Neeley and W. H. Reeves in defrauding the government, his complexity being based on the contention that he permitted and therefore consented to and tacitly authorized, the fraudulent transactions. The whole amount of the alleged embezzlement on all counts in the indictments is estimated at $150,000. The fiscal has recommended that each of the accused be fined in this amount, and also that Rathbone be sentenced to imprisonment for 25 years, Neeley for 25 years and 6 months, and Reeves for 24 years and 6 months.

NORMAN BUXTON

Writes Interesting Letters to His Family from Siberia—His Success in Specimen Gathering.

Kooshka, Siberia, June 16, 1901.

My Dear Sister:—Last night at 10 o'clock, I left Matichini Point, a place 20 miles south from here on the east coast of the Ochotsk Sea, where I had been for five days, collecting sea birds and visiting their nesting colonies on the rocky little islands there, and as we were slowly beating our way along in a rickety little native-made river boat fitted with a small sail made of American flour sacks, which my co-socks had borrowed from a party of Koraks, and when just outside of the Gichiga river's mouth, at 5 o'clock this morning, I saw the smoke of the first ship here this year far off on the sea. The ships here have to anchor about 12 or 15 miles out in the sea, and it is possible to send a boat or launch in here only at high tide, so that if the strong wind now blowing abates tonight, before high tide at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning, we will hear from the other world shortly. The birds began to arrive here about the 15th of May, and since that time I have been busy day and night, working at skinning birds during the day and hunting every night from six or seven o'clock until twelve or one o'clock, for birds to work on the following day.

The river freed itself from the ice on the 25th and 26th of May and the snow disappeared from the tundra about the same time, although there is still much snow along the river banks and hill-sides, where it was drifted. While down the coast I had six co-socks and I took with me only tea, sugar and hard-tack, so we lived on just what the country and my gun afforded, and that was fish, duck and gull and Puffin eggs. I ate enough eggs while there to keep a dozen industrious hens busy for a month. We were encamped near a "lager" of Reindeer Koraks who had a herd of two or three thousand deer and traveling Koraks visited me every day; but these people are much like the Eskimos, so that they are not as interesting as they would have been before I visited Alaska. Mr. and Mrs. Jochelson are here. Their tent is pitched within five feet of my house, but they will leave in a few days, as soon as the weather permits, for Unakinsk Jamsk and Ola on their way to Colima, situated in latitude 68 degrees and 30 minutes, longitude 161 degrees E., where they will remain next winter.

On the fifth of May a Co-sock arrived here from Chotsk and prepared a house for Lieutenant E. P. Berthoff, an American, who was at Chotsk and expected here in a few days, but he failed to put in an appearance, and I think it is the same man who went with Lieutenant Jarvis and Dr. Call as far as Point Hope on the relief expedition in 1897-98, and remained there to "watch the reindeer tracks." I do not know what his business here is, but perhaps concerning the purchase of reindeer for Alaska. He will probably come here on the first steamer from Ootuk.

There would be a good place to go to reindeer for Alaska. While down the coast I saw one herd containing more than 3,000 head and they can be purchased for from one and one-half to five roubles per head, or 75c to $2.50.

while on the Behring Sea, the U. S. Government pays 25 roubles per head. Last fall I saw this herd when it contained between 6,000 and 7,000 head. During my stay here, I have bought 12 head of them from the Korak who owns the herd, and he is very friendly with me and pays me frequent visits.

June 29th.—A launch came off from the steamer "Sungaree" this morning at 2 a. m. By it I received two packets of letters, one from mother mailed January 1st. I was very much relieved to hear from you all again. By this steamer also arrived a new Nevelovik Governor and his wife, and the young American, George H. Storck. The latter conducts a fur and taxidermie establishment at 123 Fifth Avenue, New York, and is here to buy furs. He was at one time with Hart, the New York furrier, and also with the American Museum as taxidermist. He has been several times in Siberia and last year was in China. He will be here only while the steamer remains. From him I learned some things of the world of which I had been ignorant. A French and also a Russian Scientific Expedition are on their way to Colima and here. Both have zoologists. I am so busy with shooting and skinning birds and mammals and preparing them, collecting plants, insects, fish, making photographs, packing cases and looking after everything, and my time is so short and valuable that I really have no time to write you more. Should I make a hundred more trips to the north, this will be my last with-out an American companion. It is too much for one man and too much is expected of him by the Museum. All work that requires the least bit of intelligence I must do, and when I am not working at my bench, the collection ceases to grow. With a companion even were he not able to do any of the preparing, but do the general work and collecting, I could be working all the time and send three times the results I can alone. However, I am doing all right and will bring back a good collection, that I think will please the Museum. I trust that this will find you all well and happy.

Your Brother

N. G. BUXTON.

June 20, 1901.

My Dear Mother:—The first thing I saw when I opened your letter was your "question box," and then I laughed. As I have a few minutes now before going to bed, I will answer some of them shortly and will tell you all about it at length when I come home. The country consists of high tundras and mountains and is now wooded except along the river bottoms, back from the sea coast. There are a good many Koraks living in the coast at the little rivers mouth, who depend upon fishing and hunting for a living, and migrating herds of Koraks, who own large herds of reindeer. There are bears, foxes and wolves here, but they don't come into the houses. I have seen many except what were brought to me. Many geese and ducks in spring and fall, and some nest here. I am depending on them now for a living until the fish comes in July, and have killed large numbers of them.

I have had no word from the Mother since leaving S. P., although I have reported to them several times. I send fish in tanks preserved in formaldehyde. All freight is shipped direct to New York. I should have instructed you to send or have the Miseum send my box that way. Wood is loaded down in summer in rafts from 30 or 40 miles up the river. Am I busy? Ask the birds! I speak the language like a Chinaman. There is no Arctic night south of 66 degrees 33 min. north latitude and I am in 62 degrees and 3 minutes. The sun sets now for three or four hours only, and the twilight is then so bright that one can see to shoot. My boy makes soup, cuts wood, brings water and waits on me. There is about ten hours difference in time between here and Monroe township, so that now it is just midnight and it is 2 o'clock in the afternoon there. So you see that when you were looking at the moon on December 6th, I was still thinking that it was about dinner time, and the romance is gone.

June 22, 1901.—The last ship for here, so far as I am able to learn, leaves Vladivostok, August 17-30, so that it will not arrive here before the 26th of September. Four mail ships will visit this place this year, and besides these, perhaps two or three others. One of these latter, the "Progress," is due here in a few days, and if the same Captain is still with her that was master last year, I will be able to get some provisions. I sent my Co-sock off today with Mr. Storck to see if I could get some potatoes, onions, fruit and canned goods. The second mail ship will leave Vladivostok June 1-14 and the third, July 10-23. Jochelson got away this morning, whereupon I had prayer service. A French and also a Russian Expedition are on their way to Colima and later will come here. Both have zoologists with them. It is 10:30 p. m. and I am writing this without a lamp.

June 23d.—My Co-sock returned this morning, but succeeded in getting nothing. But the salmon have arrived today, so that I will now pass on from the goose and duck oaks that followed the reindeer, to the fish. With kindest regards to all and best wishes for your health and happiness, I am

AMUSEMENTS.

Next Saturday evening Oct. 19, at the Auditorium Rich and Harris, successful screaming farce "A. A. You A. Mason," which delighted New York all last season and all summer at Powers Theatre, Chicago, will have its first presentation in this city. The piece is a farce, adapted by Leo Ber- richstein from the German of Laubs and Kretz. The farce deals as the name indicates. The fun of the piece revolves about the grips and tomfoolery that are associated in the public mind with Masonry, although there is plenty of sentiment and comical complications in it. A young bridegroom on his wedding tour, startled by a letter which his bride receives, charging him with having been fatally with the attentions of another woman. The bride is angered by the letter but agrees to forgive her husband, provided he will join the Masons. He agrees to, but never joins. Still he gets home late on lodge nights, and all that. Many years later their daughter is about to marry. The mother insists on the young suitor joining the Masons, but he doesn't, he only pretends to join. Here is more deception. This goes along until the two gay deceivers run against a friend of the family who is really a Mason. The wives confer. The pretenders are nearly found out and it is only after a lot of breathless chasing that they escape the penalty rightly due them. This is only a vague outline of a lively and multi-laughed story. One of the features is a series of remarkable tests an initiate is put through. It is richly Masonic.

Primrose & Dockstaders Minstrels.

At the Auditorium on Tuesday, Oct. 20, Primrose & Dockstader will make the annual visit to this city with their great American Minstrels and promise a program of many novelties, splendid stage settings, magnificent costumes and a goodly number of clever comedians whose reputations in many instances are second to none. The entire company will don burlesque and will inaugurate a decided departure from the many minstrel companies of the present day. The band chairs will be filled by Geo. Primrose, Lew Dockstader, "Himself" and Eddie Leonard, and William Hallett will sit in the fiddle chair. When the curtain rises on the first part, it will reveal a splendid display of the scenic artist's ingenuity and talent, and as the military band under the direction of Carl Carlsson strikes up a melody, the entire company will take their places. The vocalists have been selected with great care and number among them such well known artists as George Pearce, Harry Ellis W. H. Hallett, Fredrick Barnes, Walter Vaughn, Fred Gladis, Jas. Bradley. The orchestra will be under the able direction of M. J. Larham. In the office an excellent quality of specialists have been engaged, including the world's greatest arabes, Zeno, Carl & Zeno; the banjolets, Gladis & Corbin; the marvelous hoop-rollers, Ollie Young and Brother; that funny and prominent funster, Lew Dockstader; and the unrivaled imitator of the turkey dandy, Geo. Primrose, in an ever new and original act, assisted by his two dancing midgets. The complete equipment of this great company is said to be truly grand and well worth going to see.

The Question of Divorce and Marriage Disposed of by the Episcopal House of Deputies.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—By the action of the house of deputies of the triennial Episcopal convention, the troublesome question of marriage and divorce was set at rest for another three years. It rejected both of the proposed canons on the subject which were passed by the house of bishops. The greatest fight of the convention has been over the section of canon 25, virtually forbidding the remarriage of divorced persons by a priest of the church. This had passed the house of bishops had been adopted by aye and may vote in committee of the whole of the house of deputies. When the committee rose and reported its work to the house a decisive vote was taken not only on the troublesome fourth section, but on the entire canon, which was rejected as a whole. Canon 27, which provides for the disciplining of persons marrying again after being divorced, met with a similar fate.

The house of deputies passed an amendment to article 10 of the constitution, permitting modified forms of worship which in spirit is similar to the famous Huntington amendment recently defeated. The amendment, though credited to Dr. McKim of Washington, was in reality presented to the convention three years ago by Dr. Huntington. The bishops have yet to act before the amendment can become part of the convention. Both houses appointed members of a standing committee on capital and labor, which is to investigate the subject with a view to the peaceful settlement of disagreements between employers and workmen, and report to a general conference.

Walcott Licked.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—The Carter-Walcott contest before the National Athletic club was a fiasco, and terminated suddenly in the seventh round. Walcott fell to his knees after a slight mix-up, raising the cry of "foul" and claiming to have been struck below the belt. Pandemonium reigned for a few minutes and police and spectators crowded into the ring. The club managers summoned their physician, Dr. Eldenmadden at once, and the negro was examined in his corner. The doctor was that no foul blow had been given. Walcott was able to walk from the ring unassisted and seemed that he was shamming. The blow that really did the work was a right uppercut to the stomach. Up to this point Walcott had much the better of the contest.

Russia and Manchuria.

Paris, Oct. 16.—Twice within a week Li Hung Chang has visited M. Paul Lescaud, Russian minister to China. Chinese officials assert that Li has passed on the proposition of Manchuria to be a special entity. Li is pressing to arrange to have the great Li sue-sung for the mission his general envoy, Chang Chih Tani. The story must be accepted with some reserve.

A Brief Bout.

Milwaukee, Oct. 16.—Ed Johnson of Chicago was knocked out by Ted Malone of Milwaukee in the first round of what was scheduled a six-round go at the Badger Athletic club. Johnson attempted to rush from the start, but Malone was too strong for him.

Will the Evangelical Lutheran Council Two Years Hence.

MUCH BUSINESS AT CLOSING SESSION

Plan Contemplating Ultimate Affiliation of All the Educational Institutions of the Church—Episcopal Conference Disposes of a Perplexing Problem.

Lima, O., Oct. 16.—The special features of the concluding session of the general council of the Evangelical Lutheran church were the adoption of the plan presented by the education committee, which contemplates the ultimate affiliation of all the educational institutions of the church, securing common systems and uniform standards as well as concert of action on all questions. A special board was appointed to take charge of the growing missionary interests in Porto Rico. Another free conference of all Lutherans is contemplated in the spring of 1902. Mrs. Baird of Philadelphia and Amrahansen of Chicago reported as the official delegates to the tenth world's conference in Lund, Sweden, last September, and the question of securing the meeting of such a conference in America was favorably considered.

The report of the publication board briefly stated that the board was not able to increase the facilities as the business demanded, nor had they been able to diminish the debt in the past two years, and it asked that no further reduction in price of any publication be made, as many were printed at a loss, and the more sold increased the deficit.

The following were made chairmen of the different committees: English home missions, Rev. A. J. Sears; German home missions, Rev. C. G. Fisher; Swedish home missions, Rev. P. E. Morell; foreign missions, Rev. W. A. Shaeffer; immigrant mission, Rev. A. Richter; board of publication, Rev. W. A. Shaeffer; Porto Rico mission; trustees, Rev. Samuel Laird, D. D.; Rev. A. Spaeth, D. D.; Rev. G. F. Kote, D. D.; E. Aug. Miller, William F. Montrose, Henry Lehman. The council adjourned to meet two years hence in Mansfield, O. The only other town suggested was Berler, Pa.

Killed at a Crossing.

Dayton, O., Oct. 16.—George Brinkel, 69, and daughter, Mrs. Cella Haber, were struck by a Cincinnati Hamilton and Dayton passenger train south of this city. The latter was instantly killed and the former was badly injured. Both were taken to the hospital and buggy demolished.

Roof Collapsed.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—Thomas Scanlan was fatally and Charles Radford seriously injured by the collapsing of the roof of a Hocking Valley workhouse. The men are bridge workers in the employ of the company.

Fatal Fall.

Hamilton, O., Oct. 16.—John Cory, 17, fell four floors down the elevator shaft of a manufacturing plant in East Hamilton where he was employed. He was taken to the hospital.

Pounded to Pieces.

Hamilton, O., Oct. 16.—Ralph D. N. prob. chief engineer of a boat plant in East Hamilton, attempted to argue a bet, when he was whirled through the air and pounded almost to pieces. He was dead when he reached.

HE MAY KNOCK OUT M'GOVERN.

Obscure Young Baltimorean Matched To Meet Terry Has Flooded the Terror in Exhibition Bout.

Joe Lipman, a featherweight of Baltimore, Md., who has hitherto enjoyed only a local reputation, is the latest star to shine in the pugilistic firmament. He is matched to fight Terry McGovern and will get $1000 if he can stand up four rounds against "the Terror." As Lipman recently astonished the sporting world by knocking Terry and almost knocking him out in an exhibition bout his friends believe he may prove the only man of his class capable of mastering McGovern.

Exciting Game

Of Bowling at Brunswick Between the Franklin Addition Team and a Picked Team.

Three very exciting games were played on the Brunswick alleys Tuesday night between the Franklin addition team and a picked team.

The boys lost two games out of three they showed the old men a very fast pace. If there are any other five men in the city who have the sand to go against the Franklin addition team, the boys are ready to accept the challenge. Following is the score made:

Franklin addition team:

Franklin 182 161 147

Priest 211 179 146

Imhof 226 150 201

Total 589 582 581

Picked team:

Miller 163 194 192

Boyles 161 127 135

Johnson 199 176 177

Harrier 191 171 177

Total 654 678 667

PRASE FOR SCHLEY.

Men of the Brooklyn On Their Commander's Conduct.

SAV HE WAS BRAVE TO A FAULT.

Battle of Santiago Bay Still the Theme Before the Naval Court of Inquiry—Applicant Soon to Take the Stand in His Own Behalf—Development of the Day.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Lieutenant Commander James H. Sears, who was Admiral Schley's flag lieutenant during the Spanish war, in the Naval Court of Inquiry gave a detailed account of the entire Cuban campaign, including the brief stages of the fighting, the movement of the fleet, the blockade of Santiago, the reconnaissance of the Santiago shore batteries, and the bombardment of the Cristobal Colon May 21, and the battle of Santiago July 3, when Cervera's fleet was destroyed. He placed the distance of the blockading line at Santiago at one to four miles, and at Santiago at from three to six miles. He expressed the opinion that in the battle of July 3 it had been the Viscaya's intention to ram the Brooklyn.

In reply to a question, Commander Sears said he had been with Commander Schley in five engagements, all told. He was then asked as to the bearing of Schley under fire and replied: "His bearing to me was a model for anybody, worthy of emulation at all times. Under fire his faculties, it was possible, seemed to be clearer and more in possession of them than at any other time. He was always putting himself in exposed positions. I requested him many times not to expose himself, as it was useless to do so."

Mr. Sawyer sought to secure the introduction of a brief report of the battle of July 3, which Commander Schley prepared for transmission to the secretary of the navy. It was stated that Commander Sears had taken this dispatch ashore to be cabled to the secretary, but that it never reached that official. The dispatch was ruled out on the ground that as it was not received it was not an official communication. It was not read in the courtroom, but the following is a copy:

"To the Secretary of the Navy, Washington: Spanish squadron came out of Santiago harbor this morning, July 3, at 9:30 and were all captured or destroyed in a running fight to the westward of about three and one-half hours. Very few casualties in our fleet; Ellis, chief yeoman, killed, and one man wounded on the Brooklyn. Reports from other ships not yet in. The commander-in-chief now supervising transfer of prisoners from the Cristobal Colon, which surrendered to the Brooklyn and Oregon at 1:15 p.m. About 1000 prisoners in all, including Spanish admiral, Victory complete, details later." (Signed) Schley."

Captain Cook was recalled, and in response to a question by Captain Lantry made an additional statement concerning the retrograde movement of the flying squadron May 26 to May 28. He also said in answer to a question by the court that Commander Schley, during the battle of July 3, was "cool, brave and enthusiastic. I can not imagine any conduct in battle more admirable."

Admiral Schley thinks it quite probable that the presentation of testimony in his behalf can be completed this week and next. He will be the last of the witnesses to be heard and when he goes on will make a review of the entire campaign, covering the points in controversy.

McKinley Physicians' Statement.

New York, Oct. 16.—The physicians and surgeons who attended President McKinley through the closing days of his life presented to the State Medical Society gathered here in semiannual session, a lengthy report covering the medical and surgical history of the case of the martyred statesman. It was read by Dr. Mann. In speaking of the bulletins issued Dr. Mann said that every one of them was absolutely true. None had been misleading in any manner. He said there was absolutely no bacteriological infection. Continuing, he said: "If you ask me what caused the president's death, I could not tell you. I doubt if that will ever be discovered. Amongst contributory causes, however, were the president's age, his lack of exercise and his naturally weak heart, which made his pulse high." Dr. Mann went on to say that at no time whatever had there been the slightest disagreement among the physicians.

HELD BY THE POLICE

Woman Charged With Uttering Forged Bank Notes.

ARREST DEEMED VERY IMPORTANT.

May Lead to the Apprehension of the Gang That Recently Held Up the Great Northern Express—Daring Robbery of a Residence—Day's Record of Crime.

Nashville, Oct. 16.—Annie Rogers, alias Maud Williams, aged 26, is in the custody of the police here, and General Superintendent Taylor of the Pinkerton agency at Chicago, who is in Nashville, believes her arrest will lead to the apprehension of the gang who, on July 3 last, held up a Great Northern express train near Wagner, Mo., securing over $40,000 in banknotes. He hopes also to recover much of the stolen money. A large proportion of the bank bills were unsigned by officials of the bank at Helena, to which they were consigned.

The woman under arrest here came under suspicion by her actions at the Fourth National bank, where she presented a large roll of new bills of small denomination, asking for large bills in return. Noticing the bills closely the teller became suspicious, and while she was engaged in interview the police were notified. When arrested the woman refused to make any explanation of where the $550 in her possession came from. The bills were on the Helena bank, and though signed, serial numbers coincide with those given in the Pinkerton circular advertisement of the robbery. A warrant was sworn out against the woman charging her with attempting to pass forged banknotes. She declines to tell of herself further than to assert that she was born in Texas and that she arrived here Sunday night, from where she does not say.

Daring Robbery.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 16.—Two elderly women, Mrs. L. M. French and Mrs. A. A. Gardiner, both about 60 years of age, were robbed of personal property amounting to over $3,000 by three men ranging in ages from 22 to 25, beardless and dressed neatly, who appeared at Mrs. French's house, and pretending that they were authorized agents of a local gas company said that they wished to examine the gas meters. From the cellar the men came up stairs, and, without warning, fell upon the two helpless women, beating them into insensibility. Two of them stood guard while the third ransacked the house, securing diamonds, watches, sealskin sacks, etc., valued at $3,000.

For Perpetrating Land Frauds.
Helena, Ark., Oct. 16.—John H. Ham, alias D. May, was convicted in the federal court of forgery in connection with the soldiers' additional homestead lands in two cases, and sentenced by Judge Jacob Trieber to three years in prison at Fort Leavenworth penitentiary and to pay a fine of $250 in each case. This is the first conviction ever secured in the United States courts for such an offense. There are pending nine other indictments in the state, the frauds having been practiced very extensively in this state and in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

Guilt in First Degree.

Booneville, Ind., Oct. 16.—After being out all night the jury in Wheeler murder case brought in a verdict of death punishment. The trial has been in session 12 days, the case has been hotly contested, and the best legal talent in this part of the state has been employed. Wheeler beheaded his son-in-law, Eliza Burns, with an ax, on the night of Sept. 7. Wheeler's arrest followed and the prisoner was threatened with lynching. Militia was ordered out and the murderer was spirited away to Evansville for safety.

Prince Edwards Run Down.
St. Louis, Oct. 16.—Prince Edwards, wanted on the charge of murdering John Gray Foster of Louisiana, was arrested at East St. Louis, Ill. He was arrested he gave his name as George Duncan. He refuses to talk or to state where he has been since leaving Louisiana. His capture was effected through John Henry, a colored detective of Shreveport, who has been on the trail of Edwards ever since the murder was committed last June.

Newfoundland's Grievance.
London, Oct. 16.—According to dispatches published here by The Daily Mail, a crisis is imminent in Newfoundland unless the British government pays more attention to the demands of the colony than has hitherto been the case. A long special from St. Johns says: "Since Mr. Bond (the Newfoundland premier) left England last April, he has not received a single word from the imperial government regarding a settlement of the French shore question, nor has Mr. Chamberlain ever answered the dispatch from the Newfoundland government, sent five months ago, urging the imperial authorities to persuade Sir Wilfrid Laurier (the Dominion premier) to a ratification of the Bond-Blaine convention."

CAN YOU FIND THE TIGER THESE HUNTERS SEEK?

THE MIND OF A MOB

By
RENE DOUMIC,
Professor at Stanislas College, Paris

THE intellectual level of a crowd is always lower than the average levels of the component individuals. No crowd can ever rise to a high intellectual level, but it may sink to the lowest depths of brutality.

What is true of crowds is also true of gatherings and meetings which are not, properly speaking, crowds. Almost in every case AN ASSEMBLY IS LESS INTELLIGENT THAN ITS MEMBERS, council of war less than the generals, a jury less than the jurors. So soon as the individuals form a gathering or meeting their aggregate intellectual level becomes lower.

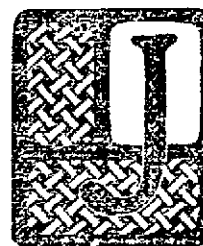

Crowds are subject to collective hallucinations and to all those mental disturbances known to alienists—partial insanity, manias, incapacity for concentration, etc. They are dominated by senseless pride, a sort of hypertrophy of the collective as well as of the individual ego.

THE SLIGHTEST SUSPICION OF DANGER, A RUMOR WITHOUT FOUNDATION, AN INSIGNIFICANT NOISE, MAY TRANSFORM A PEACEFUL CROWD INTO A HERD OF PANIC STRICKEN BRUTES. THROUGH FEAR CROWDS BECOME TERRORISTIC AND POSSESSED OF A PERFECT FUROR AND A MANIA FOR DESTRUCTION.

It is that dangerous disposition of crowds which has induced sociologists to make a study of them. Each one of the individuals of which a crowd is composed leans more toward malignity than toward indulgence. Feelings of hatred are more easily kindled than those of love. If it may truthfully be said that even in the most refined and civilized individual there slumbers a REMINISCENCE OF PRIMITIVE FEROCITY, it is also true that a crowd forms the most favorable condition for the reawakening of those slumbering brutal instincts. In such cases man somehow returns to his original barbarous condition with all the ferocious instincts of his remote ancestors. It is a pronounced case of atavism, engendered by the sympathetic force of collectivity.

Why the Japs Want to Fight

By Bishop JOHN M'KIM of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Episcopal Church at Tokyo

JAPAN is exceedingly anxious to fight Russia. Of the people of the mikado's realm nineteen-twentieths are eager to fight, and if it were not for Japan's foolish pride about borrowing money she could win in a struggle with Russia.

JAPAN'S FLEET IS MUCH SUPERIOR TO THAT OF RUSSIA IN THE EASTERN WATERS. JAPAN'S ARMY IS LARGER AND IS MADE UP OF BRAVER AND MORE INTELLIGENT MEN THAN THOSE COMPOSING RUSSIA'S FORCES IN CHINA AND MANCHURIA.

I think, however, that if Japan does not fight Russia very soon her chances of winning will deteriorate. Russia at present has no coaling station near Japan, but in two years the Siberia railway will be completed, and the forces of the czar will then be in a much better position to war against Japan and kindred eastern powers.

Japan is very much opposed to the partition of China and is especially desirous that Russia shall not secure a foothold in the empire, for the Japanese authorities well know that Korea in such an event would soon go to Manchuria and Russia would be impregnable in a position enabling the czar to dictate to Japan.

JAPAN IS ANXIOUS FOR THE ACCOMPLISHMENT OF AN ALLIANCE BETWEEN AMERICA, ENGLAND AND ITSELF.

POTENCY of the NOVEL

By Professor RICHARD BURTON of the University of Minnesota

THE novel is the dominant literary form of today, as is proved by our public libraries and by publishers' sales. It is an ALL COVERING TYRANT that has choked the life out of the older literary forms. Some think it is the decadence of literature, but that is not its position.

The modern novel is a great and potent power for good or evil, and it remains with us to make the good abiding and to exclude the evil.

The BURGLAR AT BROWN'S

By Edward B. Clark.

The alarm bell rang denoting the presence of burglars at Brown & Co.'s. Eight detectives went there and found the doors locked. The interior was in plain view. Seven men watched while the eighth man jumped into a hack and was driven posthaste to the hotel residence of Brown & Co.'s western manager, who had been transferred recently to Chicago from the east. The manager was out, and no one in the hotel knew of his whereabouts. The detective left a message asking the manager to go at once to the store on his return. Then the officer went to the telephone and called up the submanager of Brown & Co. The submanager was in, and said he would make for the store as fast as a cab could take him.

The submanager felt a heavy responsibility, and he knew that it wouldn't do to take any chances on the thing. So he gave the cabman an extra dollar to get him there quick. The submanager had been superseded by the manager from the east only a few days before.

The submanager reached the store. Taking out his bunch of keys, he let the watching detectives into the great silver treasure house. They searched the place from basement to roof, but never a burglar did they get. There wasn't a trace of a thief. Everything was intact, and the submanager and the detectives agreed that it was a case of false alarm. Then the sub went home, and the officers went back to bad cigars and penuche.

Half an hour passed. The eight men in the squadroom were watching the clock. In fifteen minutes they would be relieved. There was a click, followed by the tattoo of a bell hammer. It was another burglar alarm from Brown & Co. This time the detectives put on their coats leisurely, walked out the door and went down the stairs with half laggard steps. They climbed into the carriage and told the drivers to go to Brown's again, but not to kill the horses on the way. Arrived there, they tumbled out hastily, for the front door was ajar, and inside they saw a man standing near the safe. The officer pushed their way in, and the man advanced to meet them. He wore a frock coat and a silk hat. He met the detectives half way to the door, and then, without further introduction, he said: "I'm the new manager of this place. I got your message at the hotel, and I came over here too late to find you fellows. If you have ever been here at all, I just now pulled the burglar alarm myself to see if you Chicago sleuths have any life in you. I find you haven't. You're a worthless, good for nothing lot. It's taken you five minutes to answer my call. I'll see to it that your agency loses this job tomorrow, and I'll tell your manager that his loss of the place is due to your laziness and you'll all lose your jobs too. You're a lot of incompetents. You call yourselves detectives. Bah! You're a lot of dubs. Now get out of here and let me look up."

A flush of anger came into the face of each officer as he listened to the tirade. Suddenly the rear-most one of the group pushed his way through and laid a heavy hand on the shoulder of the man who had just heaped abuse upon them. "You're a pretty good bluff er, Slinky," said the detective. "I knew you the minute I laid eyes on your evil face. You can put on a slick hat and swell clothes all you want, but I can tell that sneaky look of yours anywhere. It's pretty near fifteen years since I sent you to Joliet last, but it'll be less than a month before you go again. Come along now," and he started to pull the man who was found in the store toward the door.

The victim drew back with a face like a thundercloud. "How dare you!" he said. "I'm the new manager of Brown & Co. Here's my card. Here are my keys and letters addressed to me. How dare you call me Slinky?"

"Oh, that's all right, Slinky," said the detective. "I've just said you're a good bluff er. Keys? Cards? What are they to get for a man of your grub? Come now, Slinky, no row. Grab hold of him on the other side, Bill."

Between the two burly detectives the victim was led to one of the waiting carriages, expostulating and entreating all the way. "I tell you I'm the manager of this place. Take me to the house of the submanager, Mr. Barton; he'll identify me." Into the carriage the prisoner was bawled. The detective who had dubbed him Slinky whispered something to the driver and the carriage went north across the river.

"Say, Slinky, what job have you been doing recently? I haven't heard from you since you came out of the pen. Hang on to him, Bill, there; Slinky's a slippery cuss, and perhaps we'd better put bracelets on him." And the detective dangled a pair of handcuffs before the victim's eyes. The prisoner squirmed and nearly burst into tears. Then he fumed again. Just then the carriage drew up in front of a North State street residence. "Call Mr. Barton out, Bill; I'll tend to Slinky all right."

Mr. Barton descended the steps in Bill's wake, and looked into the carriage. His eyes fell on the crumpled figure within. "Great Scott!" he said. "It's Mr. Meddler, our manager."

There was a gleam in the eyes of both detectives. They apologized profusely, but rapidly, and then leaving the manager on the curb whirled away in the carriage.

"Did I know him," said the biggest detective to Bill, his partner—"know him? Of course I knew him. That New York swell may call Chicago detectives slow, but I guess he'd admit we got even with him for the cussing he gave us."—Chicago Record-Herald.

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

Schley's Helpmate.

The devotion of Admiral and Mrs. Schley to each other is well known throughout the navy, and naturally the lady is very much interested in the controversy in which her husband is the central figure. She discusses the celebrated case with intimate friends, but maintains a marked reserve on the subject in the presence of strangers. As to the ultimate outcome of the inquiry she says she has not the slightest anxiety.

Mrs. Schley, though past middle age, is still a handsome woman. Before her marriage to Lieutenant Schley on Sept. 10, 1865, she was Miss Annie R. Franklin of Annapolis, Md., and was the acknowledged belle of the academy town.

Oscar Hammerstein.

Oscar Hammerstein's musical talents have aided him greatly in the building of his various fortunes. This same talent, however, according to a story which Mr. Hammerstein often tells, was responsible for his leaving the parental roof in Germany and embarking for America at the early age of fifteen. His father, Mr. Hammerstein says, was one of those men who believed that youth was equal to many tasks, and young Oscar was kept away from boyhood enjoyments learning to play the piano, the cornet, the trombone and the flute, all at the same time, the latter being his father's favorite instrument and on which he was an expert. It was after a lesson on the flute that his father told Oscar to adjourn to a dark room and repeat the instructions he had just given him. Oscar started to play, but after blowing a few notes his father rushed into the room, impatient at his son's mistakes, grabbed the flute from his hands and with it administered to Oscar a thrashing. That night when all was still in the house young Oscar arose and quietly dressed. Two months later he was stripping tobacco leaf.

Envious Lot of Her Servants.

Gowned in exquisite taste, almost regal in her bearing, Mrs. Clarence Mackay passed out of the United States hotel at Saratoga on her way to the races. One summer girl there sighed, "I would almost rather be one of Mrs. Mackay's maids than some of the rhododendrons of the piazza," she said as she glanced at the wallflowers. "Just think of it! The Mackays have three cottages here on the hotel grounds, and one of them is set apart for my lady's servants! Fancy having such a luxury just for one's servants! And even some of the most assuming patrons of the house have to be satisfied with hall bedrooms on the top story."

For Governor.

Josiah Quincy has been nominated by the Democrats of Massachusetts for governor. The opposing candidate in the recent convention was Gamaliel Bradford, but Mr. Quincy was chosen by an overwhelming majority.

For some years Mr. Quincy has been a prominent figure in the political arena of his state. In 1895 he was elected mayor of Boston and was the third of his name to hold that position. His great-grandfather, Josiah Quincy, became the second mayor of Boston in 1823. His grandfather, Josiah Quincy, Jr., was elected mayor of Boston in 1846.

Mr. Quincy took an active part in the management of Cleveland's campaign in 1892, and shortly after the inauguration of the president in 1893 he was appointed assistant secretary of state under Mr. Gresham, but in about six months resigned and returned to Massachusetts to take charge of the state campaign of his party.

But His Pictures Sell.

Stiney Cooper, the veteran English painter, now in his ninety-eighth year, recently traveled from Canterbury to Windsor to receive a decoration from King Edward. Although Cooper's pictures are ridiculed by some critics, four of them were shown at the Royal academy this year, and three of them were sold for $5,500.

As a Food For the Skin.

To Make It Smooth, Healthy and Beautiful, Dr. Chase's Ointment is Mailed by Thousands of Fair Women.

Every woman, no matter how beautiful her skin, finds need at times of some preparation to overcome the redness and roughness, and to cure the pimples, blackheads and skin irritations.

Powders may cover up the disfiguring eruptions, but can never cure them, and are positively injurious because they clog up the pores of the skin. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a food for the skin. It is readily absorbed, and thoroughly cures each and every skin disease, making the skin smooth, soft and clear.

No woman's toilet is complete without Dr. Chase's Ointment, for besides being the most perfect skin beautifier obtainable it can be used in a score of different ways. It absolutely cures eczema, salt rheum and the itching to which women are especially subject. The ointment does not cause pain when applied, but soothes the sore or inflamed surface. It immediately stops itching of the skin when applied.

When the feet are sore and chafed with walking an application of Dr. Chase's Ointment takes out the smarting and allays the inflammation in a surprisingly short time. Then for burns, scalds and every sort of chafing irritation or eruption of the skin Dr. Chase's Ointment affords a safe and certain cure. It has come to be indispensable in scores of thousands of homes in the United States. It does not cause pain when applied; so cents a box, at all dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. MEMORIAL.

Resolutions adopted by Kirk Lodge, 557 I. O. O. F., Kirtksville:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to call to his mercy our late brother, A. H. Austin, of blessed and glorious memory, by whose death we have lost a true brother and a noble citizen. We, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, hereby Resolve, That in Brother A. H. Austin we recognize the best type of American citizenship; a model husband; a true and loyal Odd Fellow, always to be found at his post in the lodge room, ever ready to help a brother in distress. He endeavored to reanimate those purely benevolent faculties which it has pleased an All-wise Providence to confer upon man and practice of eminently to the elevation and happiness of all.

Resolved, That we assure Mrs. Austin and the other bereaved kindred of the deceased brother, of our profoundest sympathy in this trying hour, and that we will not forget our solemn duty to the deceased brother, or the living faithful wife, that we may relieve as far as unfeeling sympathy and love can, the weariness and darkness of the way in which she is now called to walk alone.

Resolved, That we have these resolutions entered upon our minutes and published in each of the county papers also a copy to be presented to Mrs. A. H. Austin.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube, is 75 cts. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Bros., 56 Warren st., N. Y. m-w-f-w

G. A. Roberts of Linton, Ill., suffered four years with a wad in his stomach and could not eat. He lost 65 pounds. Two bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin restored his appetite, cured his stomach trouble and today he is well and hearty and says he owes his health to Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

REWARD RESCINDED.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 16.—The city council last night adopted a resolution rescinding its action of last December in authorizing the mayor to offer a reward of $25,000 for the capture and conviction of the Cudaby kidnapers.

"My husband," said Mrs. Newed, proudly, "is very indulgent." "Yes," remarked Miss Jellus, "they say he indulges too much."

CURED OF ASTHMA.

After 35 Years Suffering.

It will be gratifying to Asthmatic readers to learn that an absolute cure has at last been discovered by Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann. That the remedy is an effective one cannot be doubted after a perusal of such testimony as that of C. W. Van Antwerp, Pullman, N. Y., who says: "Your remedy (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure) is the best I ever used. I bought a package of our druggist and tried it and one box entirely cured me of asthma, and I have not had it since. I can now go to bed and sleep all night with perfect comfort, which I have not done before for 35 years, and I thank you for the health that I now enjoy. I hope that you will publish this letter, that others may learn of its wonderful virtues."

A BIG CROWD

WILL ATTEND OPENING OF THE DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

At Bucyrus on Wednesday, October 23.—The Low Rate of $1 for the Round Trip Secured.

Judge E. M. P. Brister received a letter from Colonel Moulton Houk, general passenger agent of the T. & O. C. railway today in regard to the Newark excursion from Granville to Bucyrus on the day of the opening of the Democratic State campaign, October 23. The rate from Granville to Bucyrus, a distance of sixty miles, as before stated, will only be $1 for the round trip, good returning the next day, if excursionists desire. If only fifty tickets are sold, the rate will be $1.25 for the round trip.

The indications now are that more than two will avail themselves of the extraordinary cheap rate and attend the state opening.

Mr. Houk says in his letter this morning that rates from intermediate points between Granville and Bucyrus will be one fare for the round trip.

The train going leaves Granville at 9:21 and arrives at Bucyrus at 11:35 a. m., and returning leaves Bucyrus at 3:35, thus giving ample time to attend the meeting and get dinner.

The Modern Beauty

Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleansing action of a laxative remedy she uses the gentle and pleasant Syrup of Figs, made by the California Fig Syrup Company only.

THE WEATHER.

Prediction for Newark and vicinity: Fair tonight and Thursday. Temperature extremes at Columbus station 23 years' record for Oct. 16: Maximum 88 degrees in 1897; minimum, 34 degrees in 1893; minimum temperature at Columbus in the past 21 hours, 38 degrees; maximum temperature 60 degrees.

COLLAR BONE BROKEN.

Mrs. Susanna Harter of Sabina, who is visiting Mr. J. M. Harter on Thirteenth street, fell this morning and broke the right clavicle. Drs. J. G. Bowers and D. M. Smith attended her.

FRANK DUNAWAY

No Trace of the Missing Man Found at the Artificial Gas Plant After Thorough Examination.

It will be remembered that Frank Dunaway who resided a short distance west of Granville, disappeared very mysteriously some time ago. Various theories have been entertained regarding his disappearance, one of which was that he might have fallen into one of the artificial gas tanks near the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad depot, as he was seen in that vicinity shortly before his disappearance. Prosecuting Attorney T. W. Phillips visited the gas plant and made a thorough examination of the tanks but found no trace of the missing man.

It's easy enough to run into debt, but it's hard to crawl out.

A DELIGHTFUL TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes of Eden Township Visit the Coshocton County Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hughes, of Eden township, were in attendance at the Coshocton Fair last week and while there were the guests of their son Frank who is one of the firm of Ed Doe & Company's branch store at that place. They drove over to Coshocton, arriving there in the morning on Wednesday evening. Mr. Hughes explains they were entirely unacquainted with the place, but that they were met by a stranger who took them in charge and escorted them to I. G. Baker's boarding house, where their son makes his home, and where they had a most delightful time.

While there they visited the county infirmary, and were kindly shown over the institution by the Superintendent. Everything about the place was in excellent shape and reflected great credit on the superintendent and matron. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes were also the guests of Mr. Robert Boyd, the secretary of the Fair Association, and took supper with him at his home. On their way home they remained all of Friday night in Newark village and returned home via New Castle and Bladensburg, having a most enjoyable trip.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN.

Women who have themselves suffered from the evil effects of constipation and indigestion will be interested in the following letter from a father whose daughter was given up to die by two physicians:

"My daughter has suffered from indigestion for the past five years and has tried nearly everything that she could hear of for such trouble. She was confined to her bed when she began taking Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and after one fifty cent bottle she was able to walk a mile at a time and during the day yesterday walked 3½ miles. I feel like praising Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin because two doctors told me my daughter could never get well and I feel that she is on a fair road to permanent relief.—Respectfully, J. H. M. Crocker, Nixon, Tenn., Aug. 6, 1901. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold in fifty cent bottles and $1.00 bottles, under a positive guarantee, by Johnson and Hall's Drug Store.

PAPER MILL

A PROPOSITION TO START THE OLD PLANT

Has Been Made to the Board of Trade by Messrs. Silk and Bachert.

The Board of Trade has for several meetings, been considering a proposition from Messrs. F. B. Silk and W. H. Bachert, to start up the paper mill on Wilson street in this city. This property as well as the Lane Brothers' plant on the south side of the railroad, has been the subject of much consideration by the Board on account of the fact that both are bits of adverse testimony on the question of Newark's prosperity. Both being on the B. & O. and Pan Handle trunk lines, they are visible to every one passing through Newark during the day.

At last an opportunity has been offered, not only to start the paper mill, but to start it with experienced men, backed by ample capital. These gentlemen also propose to build an additional building in which a large paper corrugating plant will be established. While contracting to employ one hundred operatives per day for 10 months per year for five years, Messrs. Silk and Bachert assert that the number will run up to at least 150.

A further fact has influenced the Board to place this matter in the hands of Newark's enterprising citizens, namely, that a strong demand will be created for Licking county straw, which heretofore has practically gone to waste. Besides, the product of this new industry, corrugated paper will find a fairly good market in Newark, as some of our factories buy it elsewhere for packing purposes.

Thus both the raw material and the finished product will be bought and sold in Licking county, keeping a large amount of money here, which would otherwise go out of Newark.

The uniform success of the Board as shown in Newark's prosperous new industries, has given our citizens great confidence in its judgment. We now enjoy quite a reputation even outside the borders of our state, as a bustling, wide awake and growing city. Few of our merchants have any cause to complain for living in Newark, while real estate has gone way up. Consequently this new project, which in itself shows ample evidence of merit, should meet with the cordial support of all of our enterprising citizens.

TWO FINE SHIPMENTS.

Scheidler Machine Works made two fine shipments yesterday, a 30 horse power engine, to Knox county, and a 20 horse power to Perry county, the latter to Snider Bros., which makes the forty-eighth engine sold to the one family, which is a record that probably no other engine concern in the United States could boast of. The Snider Bros., of Somerset, Logan and Columbus, are the largest harrow and lumber manufacturers in Ohio, and they know a good thing when they see it, and they use nothing but the Scheidler engines and saw mills.

AT BUFFALO

AN IMPORTANT MEETING OF THE VINOL CLUB

Attended by Frank D. Hall Who Indorses Action Taken—Hall's Drug Store News.

One of the most enthusiastic club meetings held at Buffalo the past year was that of the Vinol Club, which convened at the hotels Buckingham and Marlborough, on October 1st and 2nd.

Over two hundred members from all parts of the United States were present. Immense sales were reported from all quarters and the success of the various agents seemed almost incredible, but is accounted for by the great merits of the remedy Vinol.

It was my privilege to be present at this meeting and endorse the action of the Vinol Club, and do here state that I have no hesitation in recommending a remedy so universally approved as Vinol. FRANK D. HALL.
